Ericeira is a charming Portuguese village located on the west coast, in the municipality of Mafra, about 35 km from Lisbon. Internationally recognized as one of the world's top surfing reserves, it is a popular destination for beach lovers, nature enthusiasts, and water sports aficionados.

Features and Attractions

Iconic Beaches:
Ericeira is home to beautiful and high-quality beaches, such as Ribeira D'Ilhas, Foz do Lizandro, and Praia dos Pescadores. Ribeira D'Ilhas, in particular, is part of the World Surfing Reserve, famous for its perfect waves, suitable for surfers of all levels.
Fishing Tradition:
With a long history linked to fishing, the village preserves its authentic character, reflected in narrow streets, whitewashed houses, and cuisine, particularly dishes made with fresh fish and seafood.
Culture and Heritage:
In addition to the beaches, the village is rich in culture, with traditional festivals such as the festival in honor of Our Lady of Good Voyage, and monuments like the Church of São Pedro and the Milreu Fort.
Lifestyle:
Ericeira offers the perfect balance between tranquility and vibrancy. During the summer, it is a lively tourist destination, while outside the peak season, it maintains its serenity.
Proximity to Lisbon:
The short distance from the Portuguese capital makes Ericeira an excellent choice for weekend getaways or even as a residential area.
To Live or Invest
Ericeira has been attracting growing real estate interest, with land and properties highly valued for their unique location and quality of life. Whether for living, vacationing, or investing, the village combines local charm with modern infrastructure and easy access.
Ericeira is more than just a surf village; it is a place where tradition meets modernity, offering unforgettable experiences for visitors and residents.
